The Hmong American Farmers Association (HAFA) is a member based organization founded by and run by Hmong Americans for Hmong Americans who derive a livelihood from the agricultural and food industries. The organization is committed to advancing the prosperity of Hmong American farmers and their families through education, research, capacity trainings, advocacy and economic development.

Organization's Main Services:

- Bulk Purchasing for Seeds and Farming Supplies
- Access to Land and Greenhouses
- Equipment Purchase and Rental
- Access to Alternative Markets
- Loans and Financial Assistance
- Dry and Cold Storage
- Research and Discovery
- Value Added Business Development
- Trainings—Farming and Business
- Advocacy and Civic Engagement

Membership Privileges

Membership is reviewed and granted annually and grants access to all of HAFA's resources including print materials, trainings, facilities, research and consulting services.

Membership Criteria

Membership is awarded to a farmer and his or her immediate family upon approval by the Board of the organization. The farmer must complete the application form, pay a $100.00 membership fee, sign allegiance to a code of conduct and upon demonstration that he or she is a member of a farmers market, has a farm plot of at least three acres, has been farming for at least three years, and carries at least $1 million in liability insurance, the application will be reviewed and confirmed. Repeated violations of any of these markers will be grounds for revoking membership.

Hmong American Farmers Association Code of Conduct

As a member of the Hmong American Farmers Association (HAFA), I pledge to treat my fellow members with respect and to act honestly and with integrity in all manners of activities associated with HAFA.
